

How do I find a specific communications journal in EBSCO?

Step One: Select “Publications” from the masthead (blue stripe) in Communication & Mass Media Complete.

Step Two: Insert a publication’s name into the search field. Subject searches are also available. Choose the correct publication from the resulting list; each journal is shown with holdings information and text formats.

Step Three: Select the journal’s title to see its full record. If you have a specific citation, select its year from the right column; now select the appropriate issue to see full contents. You may also “Search within this publication” to find articles only from this journal.
